LATEST ACTIVITY

Embarking on a journey as a lecturer assistant, dedicated to facilitating and enriching practical experiences for four semesters at the Faculty of Fisheries, Pekalongan University. Excited to contribute to the academic growth and success within this vibrant learning community.

Currently, my focus is on web development. More specifically, I am delving into frontend web development. The aspect I enjoy the most in programming is the challenge of problem-solving. I feel delighted when I finally find a solution to address issues that arise in the programs I create. I am learning independently by watching videos on YouTube and exploring various websites related to web development.
